Sanctuary of Trees,
Sanctuary of Mercy

FALL WINTER SPRING | 2019-2020
Dear Friends,

Cranaleith is Gaelic for “Sanctuary of Trees,” and many have told us that they feel a sense of peace the moment they enter our grounds. The sacredness of this place beckons to those seeking spiritual renewal, personal and professional growth, healing, transformation and deeper self-awareness. Whether you come for a program, private or sponsored retreat, a Sabbath time, spiritual direction, a hosted board or staff retreat or to volunteer in our garden, you will find a warm welcome, quiet peace and a sense of belonging.

The theme of prophetic voice runs throughout many of our programs and retreats this year. Pope Francis says that a prophet is a person of hope, ‘One who corrects when needed and opens wide the doors looking to the horizon of hope’. A prophet, he says ‘restores the roots, restores one’s belonging to the people of God in order to go forward.’ The prophetic voice, then, is transformative. It brings the fullness of peace, life and joy to every person.

We are living in a time that seems so in need of prophetic words, calls to action and signs of hope. We invite you to join us this year at Cranaleith and trust that you will find in our offerings one or more that beckon you to this place of hope, this sanctuary of mercy.

Sincerely,

Charlene Flaherty
Executive Director

How can we respond to the crisis of sustainability unfolding in our world? Active Hope addresses the challenges of climate change and draws on the work of the eco-philosopher Joanna Macy. The follow-up workshop series will offer concrete practices and tools to collectively transition to a more life-sustaining society. When our responses are guided by the intention to act for the healing of our world, the mess we are in not only becomes easier to face but our lives become more meaningful and satisfying. No prior experience or reading is required. If you are searching for ways to personally respond to the challenges of climate change, you are welcome!

This kick-off event is followed by a series of sessions designed to prepare participants to facilitate this work in their own settings using the materials from the Active Hope network and other practices created by Joanna Macy.

At the heart of this workshop series is the idea that Active Hope is something we do rather than have. It involves being clear about what we hope for and then playing our role in the process of bringing that about. The journey of finding and offering our unique contribution to the Great Turning helps us to discover new strengths, open to a wider network of allies and experience a deepening of our aliveness.

Rev. Alison Cornish is Executive Director of Pennsylvania Interfaith Power & Light, a statewide organization of communities and individuals of faith responding to climate change as an urgent moral issue.
